RED CROSS WORKERS AID IN WAR ON DEPRESSION

In Directions Not Open To Or Possible For State and Gov't To Help

LEADERS GIVE VIEWS

Drives Buick Twice Around the World

Col. J. Franklin McFadden, Chairman of the Southeastern Pennsylvania Chapter of the American Red Cross, in a statement to Volunteer Red Cross Roll Call workers and to the public, has this to say concerning the Red Cross, which must raise $300,000 during the present campaign in order to balance its budget for the remainder of 1934 and all of 1935:

"The universal desire, necessity and efforts of everyone in the United States are to regain our lost ground and recover for the Nation that peace of mind and living conditions natural to American social conditions.

"You may ask, 'What has the Red Cross Roll Call and the appeal for special gifts to do with this?' The answer is brief and direct. The depression and its distress cannot be cured by Federal or State relief alone, or by the return of normal employment conditions alone. A sum in dollars or in kind per week per family is not a complete cure and never can be.

"If by a miracle, all need for federal or state aid and all unemployment should cease today and tomorrow morning find every person physically and mentally capable of employment again at work, it would not in the slightest degree reduce the need of Red Cross Service or the necessity for its support by the public. Public relief measures or employment cannot take the place of the human side of those services rendered by human beings to others and in need of something more than their daily bread. A living wage does not replace the need of Home Service to the war disabled ex-serviceman and his dependants, nor of Red Cross standards of public health nursing in our adjoining counties, nor for the production of clothing for those without, nor for the need of the blind for books, that they may read as you read, nor for prevention against needless injury or loss of life through First Aid and Water Life Saving Instruction, nor for the great character building influence of the Junior Red Cross in our schools, nor for the vital national need of Red Cross disaster relief when disaster strikes as it does on a constantly increasing scale in this country.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT
In the Baltimore Sun

A CAMPAIGN FOLDER

WASHINGTON—Recent announcement that the Senate Elections Committee, headed by Senator "Jimmie" Byrnes, of South Carolina, will go into Pennsylvania to investigate the campaign expenses of Senator David A. Reed may or may not be a bluff. How it seems depends upon the angle from which it is viewed.

One side will see in it a high-minded decision to protect the purity of the Senate and punish politicians who attempt to "corrupt the electorate." The other side will consider that Mr. Guffey, the Democratic candidate for Senator, is a particularly close friend of Mr. Farley, who is very anxious to elect him; that Senator Reed is the most effective senatorial critic of the New Deal; that Senator Byrnes is also an intimate friend of Mr. Farley and a very ardent Administration supporter.

They will also have a hearty laugh about anybody's efforts in the interests of Mr. Guffey to keep politics pure and frown upon the use of money—Mr. Guffey, who in 1928 succeeded in getting several hundred thousands of Democratic Committee dollars to carry Pennsylvania for Smith, and who maintains a suite of offices in Washington as the clearing house for federal patronage in his state—Mr. Guffey, who, it is estimated, in 18 months has made over 200 government jobs in Washington and distributed nearly 4,000 in Pennsylvania. What figures Mr. Hurja has worked out as to the cash distribution in that state are not known, but it can be taken for granted Mr. Guffey got his share. Mr. Guffey always gets his share.

Republicans, of course, heatedly assert that Senator Byrnes' announcement is a cheap piece of publicity, an effort to draw a red herring across the trail, to divert attention from the fire on Mr. Guffey's patronage activities and the degree to which the New Deal has drenched the state with federal funds. Regardless of the merits of these acrimonious allegations, attention is drawn to certain phases of the Guffey campaign which seem to have a more or less national significance. One of these is the intensive circulation of the 16-page, profusely illustrated folder in behalf of Mr. Guffey and his Democratic running mates.

As was pointed out several days ago, this is the most elaborate and most expensive piece of campaign literature yet used by any party in any campaign. It is half the size of a regular newspaper and skillfully designed. It is also so contrived that with slight changes it can be used in any state, and in the next campaign as well as this. These facts give rise to the notion that the real authorship of this unusual campaign document is more national than local; that it is part of the preliminary 1936 campaign plans, evolved by some far-sighted man who expects to have a part in the management of that fight.

In any event, it is a unique affair, which, in the judgment of those who have seen it, as likewise the crudest effort yet made to array class against class. It might have fittingly come from Huey Long or Mr. Bilbo, or some other professional redistributor of wealth. Many of its more elaborate cartoons would not be amiss in the more violent Communist press. But the circulation of such a document in the highly civilized state of Pennsylvania by the Democratic Party undoubtedly shocked a good many citizens who have always regarded themselves as Democrats.

It seemed to mean two things. One is that, as a result of the Pinchot hostility, the Guffey campaign must be in rather desperate shape to justify such a circular. Mr. Pinchot, in his time, has been accused of Demagogic attacks upon capital and wicked efforts to create class hatred. But Mr. Pinchot in his wildest days never sponsored as gross a production as this. The other thing is that, if there is a national inspiration to this particular piece of literature, it means a campaign next year of a particularly menacing character. It is an unashamed appeal to all forms of discontent. Looking through the pages of this circular, an old-time Democrat said with a shudder: "If a campaign based on this type of appeal is successful in this country it will ultimately substitute for an inequitable distribution of plenty an impartial division of nothing."

DENIES GETTING ALIBI IN HAUPTMANN CASE

Fawcett, Prisoner's Attorney, Says He Didn't Discover Furcht

STORY IS DISAVOWED

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Oct. 25—James M. Fawcett, attorney for Bruno Richard Hauptmann, Lindbergh kidnaping case suspect, explained today he had had nothing to do with obtaining the alibi story of Walter Furcht which the former construction foreman of the Majestic Apartments in New York City has repudiated. "I want particularly to point out I had nothing to do with the discovery of Furcht," Fawcett declared. "My own investigators in fact had been unable to locate him. I am glad his duplicity has been uncovered because this would have proven very embarrassing if it had occurred later on."

The prisoner's wife, Mrs. Anna Hauptmann said, "I am glad it came out now. I have so very much faith in my husband's innocence I feel witnesses either for the prosecution or the defense should tell the truth."

Announcement of Furcht's disavowal of his story that Hauptmann had worked under him in the Majestic Apartments until 5 p. m. on the day of the kidnapping and then had reported for work on the following morning, was made after Hauptmann was arraigned in Flemington and had been granted a delay in starting his trial until January 2nd.

FARMER WHO BURNED BARN IS NOW "CURED"

Harvey Haney Released From Farview Penitentiary; Now At Bucks County Jail

TO DECIDE COURSE

DOYLESTOWN, Oct. 25—Harvey Haney, 50, former Sundale, Bucks County, farmer, was brought from Farview Penitentiary for criminal insane to the prison here, this week, by Sheriff Horace E. Gwinner and head keeper Grant Myers.

Haney, charged four years ago with arson, was released by the Farview authorities as "cured," and upon the proper application made by Farview to the Bucks county courts, Haney was transferred to the County Prison.

During the next week, the Bucks county authorities will decide what course will be taken in the final disposition of the Haney case. He was never tried in court.

Records show that Haney was committed on August 6, 1930, and on October 7, 1930, was committed to the hospital at Farview. On August 6, 1930, Haney confessed to County Fire Marshal William L. Stackhouse, of Hulmeville, and to State Police, that while mentally depressed he set fire to two large barns on his own farm.

At the time of his arrest, and after the confession, Haney, broken in spirit and in a very depressed condition, told County Fire Marshal Stackhouse that he "was through."

One fire on the Haney farm destroyed a new barn at a loss of approximately $15,000. Cattle and pigs, together with all the season's crops, were destroyed in this fire. Haney went to a picnic after setting fire to the barn. In February, 1929, Haney set fire to his barn and some time later had another barn erected on the same site.

Haney had received treatment for a mental condition, several times before the time of his arrest four years ago. He told the officers that he "knew it was wrong, but that he could not help himself."

After four years of treatment at Farview, Haney has improved and the next step is now up to the Bucks county authorities.

TO ASK BONUS PAYMENT

Miami, Fla., Oct. 25—The American Legion at its 16th annual convention was set today to ask President Roosevelt and Congress for a $2,200,000,000 payment to America's World War veterans, in an immediate settlement of their adjusted service (bonus) certificates, as a means of speeding up national recovery. The cash bonus resolution will be approved by an overwhelming vote as exclusively forecast by International News Service last Monday. The Legion will ask the cash settlement on the ground the Roosevelt administration is "definitely committed to the policy of spending additional sums of money for the purpose of hastening recovery from the present economic crisis." The Legion's action was interpreted by prominent Legionnaires as a direct slap at President Roosevelt for his Roanoke, Va., address.

THIRTEEN LIBRARIES REPRESENTED AT SESSION

Fall Meeting of Bucks County Association Occurs at Hatboro; Reports Heard

ADDRESSES ARE GIVEN

HATBORO, Oct. 25—In session here on Tuesday, the Bucks County Library Association forwarded a letter to the Upper Southampton school board, expressing interest in the building of a library in that locality.

Five-minute reports were given by representatives of several libraries including: Ambler, Doylestown, Eureka, Farm School, Fallsington, Hatboro, Jenkintown, Glenside, North Wales, New Britain, New Hope, Southampton and Willow Grove. The last named has just been closed and is selling its books and shelves.

Miss Matthews, of the State Library Extension Service, told of the annual meeting this Fall of the State Library Association at Hershey. A survey is being made of libraries of the State as to how their service may be made as reaching.

Mrs. Harry J. Shoemaker, Doylestown, State Federation chairman of wild flower preservation, talked on "Nature Books in the Library." She gave many hints as to books boys and girls would wish to read about birds, wild flowers and wild life, and as to ways during the different seasons that librarians may interest the youthful readers in such books.

Chester H. Barnes, principal of Hatboro High School, spoke of the relations between the school library and Union Library. There are thirty shares available at Union Library, Hatboro, for the use of pupils of the school and he paid tribute to the patience of the librarian in assisting pupils in selecting books, and to the book buying committee in consulting with the school librarian.

During the morning session Miss Susanne Maguire, librarian at Hatboro High School, reported on the books read by the pupils. Miss Sara N. Miller, Hatboro, reviewed "The Archers of the Years," a biography by Holliday Sutherland, and Mrs. Eisenstrager, Glenside, read "A Thanksgiving Dinner" and "Carry On." During the intermission directors and librarian at Hatboro served coffee.

HATBORO SCHOOL DIST. WINS SUIT OVER TUITIONS

Verdict Returned in Favor of Plaintiff; Sum of $3,122.36

AGAINST WARMINSTER

Only One Witness, the Principal, Called For The Plaintiffs

DOYLESTOWN, Oct. 25—In a suit for tuition brought by the school district of Hatboro Borough, Montgomery county, against the school district of Warminster township, Bucks county, in the civil court of Bucks county, a verdict was returned Tuesday in favor of the plaintiff in the sum of $3,122.36.

The case was tried before President Judge Hiram H. Keller and Judge Calvin S. Boyer. The Hatboro school district was represented by Samuel High, of Jenkintown, and Isaac J. Vanartsdalen, of Doylestown, while the defendant district was represented by Harry Grim, of Perkasia.

Only one witness, Chester H. Barnes, supervising principal of the Hatboro schools, was called by the plaintiff, while three were called for the defense, including J. Howard Cliff, president of the Warminster school board; Albert T. Walton, secretary of the board, and William H. Darr, who has the contract for hauling pupils to school.

It was testified by the plaintiff witness that each of the school districts are of the fourth class, and that no public high school is maintained by Warminster district.

Certain pupils residing in Warminster township, in Sept. 1932, became eligible to attend high school, and as a result, attended school in Hatboro, adjoining Warminster township.

It was testified that the Hatboro High School is the nearest and most conveniently located high school of such class the pupils severally desired to attend.

It was further testified that at the close of each term, the directors of Hatboro certified to the board of directors of the Warminster district, the names of all pupils attending the Hatboro High School residing in the Warminster district, together with an itemized statement of the costs of tuition, textbooks and supplies for such attendance, which did not exceed the tuition, textbooks and supplies of other pupils in other high schools pursuing similar studies for the same length of time.

The calculation, in the manner prescribed by law, of the cost per capita pupil, in attendance at the plaintiff's high school, was duly sent and certified to the defendant school district, it was further testified.

Each month, Principal Barnes testified, from September 1932 to June 13, 1933, the plaintiff district certified to the Warminster district, the pupils residing in the defendant district, attending the High School in Hatboro and, from time to time, billed the defendant district at the per capita cost of $12.50 per month.

It was also brought in to evidence, that on September 1, 1932, the Warminster school district made public the following action or resolution of its board of school directors:

"To parents of High School Pupils—The Warminster school district will be responsible for high school tuition at Southampton High School only.

Any parents desiring to send their child or children other than to Southampton school district will pay, upon presentation of a bill for tuition from such school district, toward the tuition cost of such child or children, a sum equal to $8.95 per month, that being the cost of tuition at Southampton High School. By order of the Board, A. C. Walton, Secretary."

The plaintiff contended in the trial that the Warminster district sought to require and compel all pupils eligible and entitled to attend a high school to attend the high school of its selection at Southampton in the county of Bucks, which high school was not, with respect to any of the pupils attending plaintiff's high school, the nearest or the most conveniently located high school and, furthermore, respecting each pupil, the high school of the Borough of Hatboro was and is the nearest and most conveniently located.

Principal Barnes testified that the Warminster district has failed and refused, although frequently requested, to pay any one or all the bills rendered by Hatboro school district.

Suit was brought to recover the following bills, with interest: $287.50; $287.50; $300; $321.50; $312.50; $300; $300; $325; $300, and $300.

In the case of John Sidorosky and Eva Sidorosky, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, a verdict for the defendant was agreed upon by counsel.

CLUB MEETING

Miss Catharine Wade, Pine street, was hostess Monday evening to members of the Handy Andy Club. Games and refreshments were enjoyed, and prizes earned by Jean Angus, Helen Hoffman and Mary Gallagher.

COLLAPSE OF THE DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM

Philadelphia Inquirer, October 20, 1934

ARTICLE FOUR

In these discussions of the 1932 Democratic National Convention platform we have shown how deliberately some of its basic planks have been repudiated. Among the pledges "solemnly" taken by the convention and approved "100 per cent" by Mr. Roosevelt that have been violated are those promising "a Federal budget annually balanced" and "a sound currency to be preserved at all hazards." There is, too, the condemnation of "the unsound policy of restricting agricultural products to the demands of the domestic markets."

There is nothing left of these planks but splinters. All thoughts of budget balancing have been discarded. Campaign attacks made by Candidate Roosevelt upon the growth of commissions and bureaus evidently meant nothing, considering the fact that New Deal experiments have resulted in creating something like fifty bureaucratic agencies, alphabetically designated, employing a newly organized army of nearly 100,000.

There is reckless extravagance and there is reckless waste. Currency has been made the football of theorists. Agriculture is not only restricted, but the people are taxed to pay "benefits," which are actually bounties, for acres taken out of production.

There are other planks in that platform—or were before the collapse—that had no business there, seeing that they have since been rejected. There is the one which advocates "a competitive tariff for revenue, with a fact-finding tariff commission free from Executive influence." It was highly approved by Candidate Roosevelt in an address delivered at Albany on July 7, 1932. A commission of experts could be trusted to find facts, he said. "The facts should speak for themselves, free from Presidential interference."

What has happened to that plank? Tossed into the scrapheap to keep company with the other broken promises. Within a limitation of 50 per cent of existing duties, the President has been made sole arbiter of rates. He may sit down at a bargain table and barter low rates in trade agreements.

The Democratic Convention nailed this plank into its platform structure: "We advocate strengthening and impartial enforcement of the anti-trust laws to prevent monopoly and unfair trade practices."

With the appearance of NRA the anti-trust laws were suspended. Senator Borah and many others are asserting that the Government, through the codes, is encouraging and actually fostering monopoly. The codes have mightily perplexed the Administration.

THE REAL OBJECTIVE

Totalling now 17 million, the number of persons on federal, state and local relief rolls in the country is expected to reach 20 millions before the winter is over. This is one-sixth of the country's population.

Notwithstanding the impressiveness of such a figure, Donald R. Richberg, head of the administration's policy committee, offers the assurance that "the burden of federal relief this winter, despite an unprecedented load of drought relief, should be far less than last winter." While this is contrary to many of the forecasts that recently have been made, it is none the less heartening to the extent that it is due to the reason mentioned, "constructive measures which have helped to revive private business."

That must be the real way out. The necessity of relief cannot be questioned, although there may be differences of opinion as to methods. But the urgency of doing everything possible to aid the recovery and expansion of business and of thus absorbing the unemployed is even more plain.

Relief whatever its form, is the temporary expedient. Increasing employment for the millions now idle must be the permanent objective.

SAFETY AT SEA

A proposal, which if adopted might go far toward making sea travel more safe, has been made by Secretary of Commerce Roper.

His recommendation is that naval officers be assigned to travel on American merchant ships for the purpose of inspecting equipment and service, especially the latter, from the standpoint of safety.

While conditions generally may not be as bad as those which the Morro Castle inquiry indicated existed on that ship, there is nothing to show that they are of a kind to provide the greatest possible degree of assurance for the safety of passengers. The federal steamboat inspection service is supposed to see that ships are equipped with a sufficient number of lifeboats and other safety devices to take care of all passengers in case of disaster. It is able to exercise little oversight or control, however, over the crew in the way of seeing that they are properly acquainted with their duties and capable of performing these in the proper way.

The use of traveling safety inspectors would offer a way of accomplishing this. And it probably would be hard to find men better equipped for this service than naval officers, highly trained in discipline and proficient in safety procedure.

Some day a physicist may be able to tell us why justice comes so much faster than justice.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely. But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resist a substitute. 25c at drug stores. ©1931 C. M. Co.

GIRL IN THE FAMILY

BY BEATRICE BURTON

CHAPTER XXV

In the three weeks she had known Allen he had changed everything in Susan's life, giving point and meaning to everything she did. Even these days of dullness and hard work were bringing her closer to the time when she could marry him and settle down to the real business of life, and the joy of it. "Marry and settle down." The worn phrase sounded matter-of-fact and dull enough, but all the enchantment and romance of the whole world were bound up in it for Susan whenever she thought of herself and Allen standing before a minister or going house-hunting—and she thought of very little else as she ran her hot iron over the old linen tablecloths and sheets or scraped gravy from the bottom of the roasting pan.

She dressed herself with a sort of electric interest now, knowing that Allen's eyes would rest on the whiteness of her organdy collars and cuffs, the little ruffles of dove-colored silk that materialized her eyes, the glossy black of a hundred strokes of the brush had given to her hair.

On Wednesday night Allen stayed downtown for his law classes, but on Thursday evening when Susan was getting dinner she heard him come in. She had the kitchen door open so that she could listen for him, and when she heard the sound of his key turning in the lock she went softly down the rear hall to the side door.

The electric light that hung there above the steps had burned out a few days before and she stood waiting for him in half darkness. As he came up the steps she put out her hands and laid them on the rough cloth shoulders of his coat. "Dear-est," the little word came easily and naturally to her as if she had been saying it to Allen for years. She had never been shy with him; she always had been with Wallace, even after she became engaged to him.

"Susan... Susan." He took her in his arms and Susan leaned back in them tilting her face for his kiss. "Susan, just think, some night I'll be coming home this way to our house, and you'll be waiting for me." Then his arms slackened and he drew away from her listening. A door closed somewhere in the front part of the house and footsteps came down the hall. Slow, heavy, shuffling footsteps. Uncle Worthy in his house slippers.

Allen glanced toward the door that led to the front hall. The footsteps came very close, then stopped and the door of Uncle Worthy's study opened and closed.

Susan breathed a long sigh of relief. "Saved!" she whispered and let out a little laugh that was hardly more than a breath.

Allen shook his head. "I can't say that I care so much for this hole-and-corner stuff," he said flatly. "The sooner they know about you and me the better pleased I'll be."

"What do you mean?" Susan's eyes were large and questioning in the dimness of the cold little entry way. "I mean this—that the last thing in the world that two people ought to be understood about is their love," he said, opening the door that led to the front hall. "If they have to sneak and lie about it—" He snapped his fingers as if he wanted to show her just how worthless that sort of love was in his opinion, and went up the front staircase to his own room.

Back in the glare of the kitchen Susan thought over what he had said as she turned the veal chops in their sizzling pan and turned down the gas under the coffee pot. He was right about love, of course. Love ought to be honest and unafraid. Like sunshine, for the whole world to look at. And she supposed it did make him feel degraded to make love to her there in the kitchen hallway, like Herbert with Anna, while Wallace came to the front door and was received as an honored guest of the house. Well, she would get everything straightened out as soon as possible.

The door from the pantry swung open and Uncle Worthy popped his head into the kitchen. "Didn't I hear you talking to someone out here, Susan?"

She shook her head. "There hasn't been a soul but me in the kitchen for at least an hour," she said. It was the truth and yet it was not the truth. She knew that she ought to say, "I was just talking to Mr. Sholes in the entry way, Uncle Worthy."

And she hated herself for not saying it. But how, she asked herself as he drew his head back from the doorway like a turtle retreating into its shell, could she tell the whole truth to Uncle Worthy? If he once got it into his brain that she and Allen knew each other well, he would watch them like a hawk; and he was quite capable of ordering him out of the house if he learned what the real state of affairs between them was. No, she was going to play safe. She was not going to tell him or anyone else anything at all about Allen until the household storm over her broken engagement had blown over.

Just before dinner a telegram came from Wallace. It had been sent from a town less than a hundred miles away and it announced that he would be home that night and would telephone her from the station as soon as his train got in. Susan, in the role of housemaid, answered the doorbell when the messenger boy brought it and the said nothing about it to anyone in the family.

But she took it with her when she slipped out of the house after dinner to meet Allen, who was waiting for her in the doorway of the Shoe Fixery on the corner, just out of sight of the house. They read it by the light of the arc light, their heads close together. It was below zero weather and the street was almost deserted. A block away the footprints of a solitary pedestrian rang like iron in the frozen stillness, and the stars were unusually large and bright above the roofs on the other side of the street.

"If you're going to have to see Stoffen tonight you'd better not stay here, talking, very long," Allen said when he had read the telegram and handed it back to Susan. His voice was sharp with the kind of sarcasm that is the result of jealousy. "You'd better go and get dressed for him."

"He may not want to come out tonight," Susan answered. Her voice was like a gentle hand, reaching out to soothe him. "He only said that he was going to call me up—and Allen, I wish you wouldn't be so jealous and bitter like this. You don't have to be. I'm never going to see him again, or think of him, after I get things straightened out with him. But I am sorry for him because this is going to humiliate him."

"But, sorry or not, you're going to tell him exactly how things are, aren't you?" In the shadow of the doorway he put his hand under her chin, tilting her face so that he could look directly down into it. "The sooner you get it over with the better it will be for everyone concerned, Susan. It isn't fair to him or to yourself or to me not to tell him right away."

He left her after a few minutes, his whole attitude that of a man who is leaving the woman he loves to an uninteresting rival knowing that presently she will return to him. His face was almost sullen, and when he kissed Susan good-night he did it with a sort of angry ardor, as if it made him bad tempered to know how much he cared about her when she was not yet free from Wallace.

She went upstairs and lay in bed, thinking over what he had said. "If you don't go through with this, you needn't ever try to explain it to me, Susan." That was his parting remark.

The train that brought Wallace back from the south was late because of a heavy down-state snowfall, and he did not telephone her until half past eleven that night.

"It's too late for me to come out, sweetheart," he said, to her great relief. "I'd drive back to see you for just a second, but it would be after midnight by the time I got there and I won't get too much sleep, as it is. Hard day ahead of me tomorrow, after all this loafing, too."

At twelve the next day Susan left a luncheon of cold salmon and potato salad for her aunts and Uncle Worthy set out on the table, and went down to the bank to see him.

She had telephoned him to say that she was coming and he was waiting for her, with a white carnation in the lapel of his coat. She wondered if he always wore one when he was at work or if he had some out of the flower stand in the lobby of the building that decorated himself with it in her honor. His collar was as white as the flower, and his face was reddened by the sun. He had had three good days of golf, he told her.

As she shook hands with Wallace, Susan felt shabbier than usual. In comparison with his double-breasted blue suit, his necktie of rich and heavy satin, his glossy black shoes, and her old fur coat seemed to take on an extra rustiness and "rattiness." But Wallace smiled down at her as if she were the most beautiful human being in the world, and the grip of his fingers hurt. "Susan, I've got to kiss you," he said with a glance over his shoulder at an elderly man who sat at the desk next to his. "I wish old Burton—"

"would go chase himself around the bank for a minute or two so I could do it."

Allen would have kissed her if all the bankers in the Fourth Federal Reserve District had been there to see him do it. Susan reflected, if she were openly engaged to him as she still was to Wallace. But she was glad that Wallace did not try to. She wondered, looking at his handsome uninteresting face, how she had ever let those rather pale lips touch hers, and how she had ever mistaken a feeling of security for love.

He drew up a chair for her beside his desk and seated himself in his own chair, looking very business-like, as if he were ready to discuss stocks and bonds and second mortgages with her. Far back in his eyes was a questioning look as if he were wondering why she had come to see him.

"Will you go out and have lunch with me after a bit?" he asked. "I can't leave until half past twelve. I shouldn't, at any rate."

Susan's throat tightened and stiffened all at once so that she had to swallow hard two or three times before she could answer. "Thanks, but I don't care for lunch, Wallace. I came down here to see you because I have a—sort of confession to make to you."

She clasped her hands on the very edge of his flat-topped desk. In the palm of the left one was the ring box, held tightly as she had held her Sunday school nickel when she was a little girl.

"Yes," Wallace draped one arm over the back of his swivel chair and smiled at her calmly. "And what is this dreadful confession?" His smile implied that whatever it was couldn't be so very bad or so very important. He was very certain of her, and his certainty showed in his attitude.

"It really is dreadful, Wallace," Susan put her elbows on the desk and leaned closer to him so that the elderly man could not hear what she was going to say.

Something in the gesture, something in her face, must have suddenly convinced Wallace that she really did have something important to say to him. The smile slowly left his eyes and the questioning look deepened in them.

"Our engagement can't go on!" She brought the words out in a rush. "It's all over!"

Wallace sat back in his chair as if she had reached out and slapped him across his face. He stared at her as if she were a total stranger who had brought him some shocking piece of news.

"But how?" he asked finally. "How not go on?"

Susan stared down at her clasped hands. "This is the hardest thing I've ever had to do, Wallace. To explain this to you, I mean. But I do want to be honest with you. When I told you I'd marry you I fully intended to do it. I was sure I loved you. But I'd never been in love before, and I didn't know what it was like."

"Ah!" Wallace's smile came back into his face, the kind of smile that is as bitter as a look of extreme dislike. "I see. You've found out since then what it is like to be in love. Is that it?"

"I'm afraid it is."

She had not meant to tell him that. She had intended simply to tell him that she did not care for him enough to marry him, and then to get away from him as soon as possible. She saw now that it was not going to be easy to carry out that program.

Wallace got out of his chair. "Let's go somewhere and talk this over," he said. "In private. I'm afraid I don't quite get the hang of what you're trying to say."

He got his overcoat and his rubbers and his hat, and side by side they crossed the white marble floor of the bank and out into the cold sunshine of South Main Street.

How to protect small business from big business; how to permit industry to regulate its own affairs without restraint of trade; how to restore competition, but prohibit that which is unfair; how to regulate prices—these are all problem-puzzles still calling for solution. Meanwhile the anti-trust laws are out, along with the Convention insistence upon their enforcement.

Again we have the plank that demands "the removal of Government from all fields of private enterprise except where necessary to develop public works and natural resources in the common interest."

Just a meaningless conglomeration of words. The Government is already more and more deeply into business. It is spending untold millions in the Northwest for huge dams which will supply electrical power. It is invading the province of public utilities in which millions of people have invested their savings. If there is anything that is escaping the Government in the Tennessee Valley, what is it? It builds houses. It buys land. It deprives utility companies of their legitimate business. It even retails, in direct competition with private business, all sorts of household appliances. "Removal of Government from all fields of private enterprise." That is a farce.

We wonder what a National Democratic Convention would do today if it were in session. Surely its Committee on Resolutions would have to abandon much that is in the present platform, since repudiation has been the policy. We suspect that free silver, paper inflation, increased dollar devaluation and other political nostrums would find lodgment in the report.

"It can, therefore, truthfully be said to our Volunteer Red Cross Roll Call workers wherever they may be; in the city or in the four adjoining counties and to that volunteer group of men and women asking for special gifts and also to those who respond and enroll and contribute, that all are helping in the nation's war on the results of the depression and, in direct, not open to or possible for the State or Federal government. You can rightfully consider your service as indispensable and as patriotic as a Voluntary Enlistment to defend your country from armed aggression. It can only be so regarded by those also to whom you extend the invitation to help the Red Cross.

"We also urge that in extending the invitation to help, that it be made on the basis of the largest membership the individual can afford and not on the minimum annual membership. The Red Cross to exist must have a larger proportion of $5, $10 and $25 members than in the past, in addition to those who are being asked for special gifts.

"At the Regional Red Cross Conference, speaking for the State Federal Emergency Relief Board, Mr. Karl deSchweinitz, also a member of the Philadelphia County Relief Board, made it very clear that the work of the State was limited to certain things and in no way replaced or duplicated the service of the Red Cross or other private agencies and that the Red Cross and other agencies were vitally necessary to enable the State to do a good job itself.

"That State and Federal aid in no way relieves or does for the Red Cross in any way, any part of its charter obligations, is perhaps not generally realized, but that is the fact. In bringing this brief statement to a close, it is of interest to repeat a few sentences from the statements of nationally known people, as to the Red Cross and its support.

"Harry L. Hopkins, Director of the Federal Emergency Relief, says:

"Neighbors help neighbors through the instrumentality of the Red Cross. This is our great volunteer reserve for operation to the forthcoming Red Cross Roll Call."

"The foregoing are examples of many others from many sources.

"The good will of a nation is fine, but to be of use, it must be translated into deeds and we appeal to everyone to respond to the invitation to rejoin or join to the extent of their maximum ability, that this Chapter may be supported for the last four months of this year and for the coming year, 1935. For, strange as it may seem, the Red Cross in this community has not been adequately supported and now needs $300,000 to balance its budget for 10 months.

"That which belongs to everyone and is for everyone is a privilege for everyone to help support as a matter of personal pride. We have every faith in a successful Roll Call as a result of your efforts and again I thank deeply the unselfish patriotic men and women that help the Red Cross carry out its obligations."

Quickened Appetites Need Not Mean Extra Effort With These

When the first frosty hint of autumn tingles in the air appetites for hearty substantial dishes increase. The full-flavored roast or succulent chop is welcomed and hence, provided by the home keeper who prides herself on making the menu fit the season. The meat dishes given are suitable for the season, and because some of them are a bit unusual, all the more welcome.

Pork Chops en Casserole

Slice 5 sweet potatoes crosswise, place a layer in a greased baking dish and sprinkle with salt, pepper and brown sugar. Continue until all potatoes are used. Pour over enough heated milk to almost cover. Rub 6 pork chops with salt and pepper and place on top of the potatoes. Cover and bake in hot oven for about 45 minutes. Remove cover and cook until chops are tender and slightly browned.

Baked Hamburg Loaf

1 pound hamburger steak
1 medium onion, cut in fine pieces
1 green pepper cut fine
1 egg
1 cup broken spaghetti
1/2 can tomato soup
1/2 cup milk
1 slice bread
Salt, pepper and celery salt to taste.
Boil spaghetti for 10 minutes. Mix with all the above ingredients, except the bread, and place in a casserole. Spread crumbs of bread over the top. Bake with cover on for half an hour, then take cover off and leave in oven until done.

Savory Pot Roast

Take a four pound piece of beef from the chuck. Make splits on each side with a sharp knife, stuff each slit with a small sliver of garlic. Brown the meat on all sides and place in roasting pan with 1/2 cup of water. After the meat has cooked one-half hour place sliced carrots and one can of peeled tomatoes over the top. Potatoes may be placed around the roast if desired. Serve meat with vegetables arranged about the sides and thicken the liquor remaining in the pan for gravy.

Short Ribs with Vegetables

Brown 3 pounds of short ribs of beef in a little fat in a heavy kettle. Cover with hot water and add salt and pepper and simmer for 1 1/2 hours. Add the vegetables (seven of each) carrots, potatoes, onions and turnips. If there is not enough liquid to cover all of the vegetables put the onions and turnips in the liquid and let the carrots and potatoes lie on the meat. Simmer until the vegetables are tender. Remove meat and vegetables and arrange attractively on a platter. Make a gravy by thickening the liquid with browned flour. Two tablespoons flour to each cup of liquid.

Ragout of Beef
1 pound chuck steak cubed
1 large onion sliced
10 whole cloves
dash paprika
4 cups canned tomatoes
1 clove garlic

1 teaspoon salt
1 bay leaf.
Have the butcher cut the meat in cubes about 2 inches square. Sear the cubes in a deep kettle or a heavy frying pan, add the tomatoes, onion, garlic, cloves, salt, bay leaf and paprika. Cover and cook over the simmer burner at a very low temperature for about 2 hours or until the meat is tender. Remove the cloves of garlic and bay leaf and serve at once over hot boiled rice. If you prefer a thick sauce remove the meat when tender and reduce the liquid to about one-half.

Roulade of Veal

1 1/2 pounds veal round steak
1/2 cup oil
2 filets anchovies chopped
6 green olives chopped
1 egg yolk
2 tablespoons capers
1 pinch Parmesan cheese
1 pinch salt

2 tablespoons butter
1 No. 2 can tomatoes
3 cups green beans
6 potatoes
6 sprigs parsley.

Have the meat cut in six pieces and pounded. Brush over with oil. Mix the anchovies, olives, egg yolk, capers, cheese, salt and pepper. Spread this mixture on the meat pieces and roll, fastening with toothpicks. Brown all over in butter in frying pan, then put into the tomato soup which should be boiling. Cook for twenty minutes. Take out the rolls, remove the toothpicks and keep hot. Have the potatoes cut in small cubes and the beans in equally small sections. Cook for twenty minutes in the same juice in which the meat was cooked. Add a little stock or boiling water if the juice becomes too thick. Put in the meat rolls again and reheat for 5 minutes. Remove from the liquid, arrange meat and vegetables on a large platter and garnish with parsley.

Stuffed Rib Chops with Apples

6 rib pork chops 1 1/2 inches thick
1 cup fine dry bread crumbs
1/2 cup chopped celery
1 tablespoon fat
1 tablespoon minced onion
1 tablespoon minced parsley
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon savory seasoning
dash of pepper
1/2 teaspoon celery seed
3 tart red apples.

For the stuffing cook the celery, onion, parsley in the butter for a few minutes. Add the bread crumbs and seasonings and stir until well mixed. Wipe the chops with a damp cloth. Core a pocket in each chop. Sprinkle the chops with salt and pepper and rub lightly with flour. Sear the chops in a heavy hot skillet, turning the fat edges down at first and then browning on both sides. Then fill each chop with stuffing and skewer the edges together with toothpicks. Lay the stuffed chops on a rack in a baking dish. On the top of each chop place cut side down, 1/2 apple which has been cored but not pared. Cover closely and bake in a moderate oven for about 45 minutes or until the meat is tender. Lift the chops and apples together from the baking dish onto a hot platter and remove toothpick skewers. Garnish with parsley and serve at once.

Red Cross Serves Humanity

THE spirit of the nation-wide humanitarian work of the American Red Cross is typified in the 1934 poster drawn by the well-known artist Lawrence Wilbur. The Red Cross, shown protecting a small boy who is in distress, is illustrative of the role of the organization in rushing relief to victims of disaster—other storm, epidemic, earthquake, fire, flood or other type of catastrophe. During the past year Red Cross sent material aid to 103 disasters, giving assistance to 119,000 persons. This is but one example of service by the Red Cross. It also serves in health conservation, through its Public Health Nursing Services employing more than 750 nurses; in safety and accident prevention, through its Life Saving and First Aid instruction; in aid to veterans and service men through its Home Service work; and in cementing the youth of the nation, through Junior Red Cross, into a national society devoted to preparing them in fitness for service, good citizenship and world friendship.

The 1934 Poster invites all men and women to join the Red Cross during the annual enrollment, so that they may participate in this vast humanitarian enterprise. Your local Chapter will welcome you as a member.

ENDEAVOR TO MAKE LUNCH ATTRACTIVE, ALSO APPETIZING

By Rhonda A. Armstrong
(Home Economics Representative)

School time lunch packing time again. Once or twice a week presents no problem but five times a week, for week after week, taxes the ingenuity of the mother or big sister whose duty it is to pack Buddy's or Sister's lunch box.

Sandwiches usually are considered the staff of the lunch, but to make it attractive as well as nutritious a lunch may contain a raw vegetable, such as tomato, celery, carrot strips, or crisp lettuce. Milk should be included in some form, such as cocoa, soup, custard, or pudding. But the lunch is not complete without fruit, fresh, canned, or dried, and a sweet which may be cookies, single cake, candy, or stuffed dried fruit.

Although the food is important a good lunch is sometimes spoiled by poor containers and hasty, careless packing. A well-ventilated metal container is easy to keep clean and in good condition. While a tin pail is all right, it should have holes punched in the top for ventilation.

Make the lunch box attractive when opened by wrapping the sandwiches, raw vegetables, fruit and sweet separately in waxed paper. This not only keeps the food in good condition but adds an element of surprise and interest.

Juicy foods should be placed in containers with tight fitting tops. One hot dish served at the lunch hour on a cold, snappy day makes the rest of the lunch taste better. The hot dish may be prepared in school or a hot food like soup or cocoa may be carried in a thermos bottle.

MRS. J. WANAMAKER WEARS PRINTED GOWN OF BILLOWING CHIFFON

By Nadia De Beaud
(C. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

PARIS — (INS) — Monte Carlo receives regular invasions twice a week of Italian tourists, who come on cheap excursion trips, now run between Genoa and Monaco. The trips take one day and cost so little that the most modest purse can afford them, thus giving the opportunity to visit the famous gambling resort, where more tragedies occur than in any other spot so small in the world.

At the Summer Sporting of Monte Carlo, I saw one evening James Gerard dining with Mrs. Max Oser, granddaughter of John D. Rockefeller, very distinguished in black.

Noel Coward was there.

Mrs. John Wanamaker, in a gay printed chiffon evening dress, billowing all around, led among her guests Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Miller, of theatrical fame.

There was also the American dancer Nadia, very stately in a stiff black organdie, vaporous with frills, and a purple orchid on her shoulder.

LAMAR, Colo. — (INS) — Mrs. Catherine Alexandre, relief director here, turned down a request for a $5 a month increase in wages asked by a CWA worker on one of the local projects. He wanted the extra work money, he explained, so he could hire a maid for his wife.

Don't Pay Over 25c For Medicine Friday and Saturday

SUFFERERS FROM STOMACH TROUBLE, WEAK KIDNEYS, LAZY LIVER, NERVOUSNESS AND GENERAL RUN-DOWN CONDITION:

Every person who suffers can have a full introductory bottle of the world's Newest Medicine to try for 25 CENTS. Simply read the offer below. Do this in your own interest.

This new and scientific medicine, known as Indo-Vin, has helped 87 per cent of the people who have taken it. Therefore, we offer the first introductory bottle at 25 CENTS, because we believe the people who are benefited will keep on using it. The regular full-size price of this medicine is $1.25.

WHAT IT IS!

Indo-Vin is a new, advanced medical compound of 29 of the Finest Medicinal Herbs, and not one a habit-forming drug. It is taken after meals and mixes with the food in one's stomach, thus throwing off the poisons that foster stomach troubles and permitting the kidneys and liver to function properly. It acts within 10 minutes to stop gas and pains, sourness, bloating and itching. It will not gripe or nauseate you like ordinary liver medicines. It will work the bile from the liver as black as ink. At the same time Indo-Vin drives the poisons from the kidneys and relieves backaches, bladder irritation and weakness. Relieves children from bed-wetting in a few days. Strengthens the nerves by natural means.

Now, whether Indo-Vin will help you as it has thousands of others—whether it will end your suffering in a day or a week—remains to be seen. But in light of what it has done for others, it is surely a mistake not to try it for 25 CENTS, only a fraction of actual cost. This introductory offer is good Friday and Saturday ONLY, so read the rest of this announcement and act at once. Do this in fairness to yourself and your family.

Now, whether Indo-Vin will help you as it has thousands of others—whether it will end your suffering in a day or a week—remains to be seen. But in light of what it has done for others, it is surely a mistake not to try it for 25 CENTS, only a fraction of actual cost. This introductory offer is good Friday and Saturday ONLY, so read the rest of this announcement and act at once. Do this in fairness to yourself and your family.

WHAT IT WILL DO!

Indo-Vin will cleanse your bowels (gradually—not drastic or severe) as they were NEVER CLEANSSED BEFORE.

It will bring out awful gases and impurities (frequently from the first dose) which may have been inside of you a long time, causing you many days of misery with headaches, dizzy spells, skin eruptions and lazy, drowsy, tired feeling.

Indo-Vin will relieve acid conditions and make the digestive organs sweet and clean and give complete relief from indigestion, bloating, sour stomach, shortness of breath and dyspepsia.

IT WILL give you the greatest appetite you EVER HAD IN YOUR LIFE.

G. H. Mosby, Originator of Indo-Vin, who chooses Friday and Saturday to offer his medicine purely on a trial basis at a fraction of its actual cost.

Indo-Vin will act as a diuretic to sluggish kidneys and flush out quantities of impurity that may have become dammed up inside, causing BACKACHE, SHARP PAINS AND RISING AT NIGHT.

It will make your liver more active, will clear away old bile deposits, thus relieving spells of biliousness and sick headache.

Relieves rheumatism and neuritis, giving quick relief from pain.

IT WILL put a stop to the skin eruptions that are caused by the impurities in the organs, will overcome the sallowness or "muddiness" that is due to sluggish liver and will put the ROSY GLOW OF HEALTH into your cheeks. The unfailing remedy for female complaints.

Indo-Vin will make your stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels more active, build you up in general and make you LOOK, ACT AND FEEL like a DIFFERENT MAN OR WOMAN, years younger than your real age.

SUICIDE—BY DYNAMITE

WARSAW — (INS) — As he left a mine after his day's work, Mieczyslaw Rola, 32, picked up a stick of dynamite. He went to an adjoining wood, placed the dynamite under his belt, and lit the fuse. He was blown to smithereens. No one can suggest a reason for the act.

CROCUSES TO SPANGLE LAWS

Crocuses for the Lawn

Crocuses scattered over the lawn, spangling it with the bubble-like blooms of yellow, white and purple, before the grass has started to grow, give one of the most delightful of spring effects. But to maintain this effect requires annual replacement. However, crocuses in quantity are cheap enough so that this delightful planting may be maintained.

Like all bulbs, the crocus must mature its foliage in order to mature the bulb for bloom the following year and to produce its normal increase. This is impossible if the lawn is to be kept slightly. The crocus develops its bloom after the foliage develops. After that the bloom fades, the long, narrow, grass-like leaves develop and they do not mature, turn yellow, and disappear until well into May. If the lawn were to remain unmowed until the crocuses had completed their cycle of growth, the lawn mower wouldn't cope with it and it would be necessary to call in a man with a scythe. A neat lawn and a permanent crocus display are impossible. This is the reason that to have these bright flowers of early spring in the lawn they must be planted annually.

It is merely necessary to lift a small flap of sod, tuck the bulb under it, and firm the sod back in place without disfiguring the lawn. The crocus, however, in beds and bordered where it may mature naturally is a more permanent ornament. Groups here and there will brighten an entire garden before the other occupants are fairly awakened from their winter sleep.

Beautiful combinations with other early spring flowers may be worked out with the crocuses. One of the most attractive is with the very early dwarf purple iris and yellow crocuses. The crocuses come before the irises, but last long enough to produce a gorgeous effect. The golden bell, Forsythia suspensa, dripping its golden shower of bloom in early spring into patches of purple crocuses, is another beautiful effect easily achieved. While crocuses with the rich blue of scilla siberica is another favorite combination.

Crocuses planted thickly among groups of peonies give a double season of beauty and the peony foliage conceals the yellowing foliage of the crocuses.

WASH OUT
15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

Win Back Pep...Vigor...Vitality

Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 MILES of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy.

If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scanty amount causing burning and discomfort, the 15 MILES of kidney tubes need washing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and vitality, getting up nights, lumbago, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness. If kidneys don't empty 2 pints every day and get rid of 4 pounds of waste matter, your body will take up these poisons causing serious trouble. It may knock you out and lay you up for many months. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS... a doctor's prescription... which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give quick relief and will help to wash out the 15 MILES of kidney tubes.

But don't take chances with strong drugs or so-called "kidney cures" that claim to fix you up in 15 minutes, for they may seriously injure and irritate delicate tissues. Insist on DOAN'S PILLS... the old reliable relief that contain no "dope" or habit-forming drugs. Be sure you get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist. © 1934, Foster-McBarn Co.

DON'T BE OLD AT 40 BE YOUNG AT SEVENTY

Just Eat Delicious Nu-Vitlyn,
the Amazing Discovery That Feeds the Strength-Giving Essence of Vitality.

FOR thousands of years scientists have observed that people who lived on sea food such as oysters, shrimp, clams and varied other fish, were vigorous, powerful and lived to a ripe old age. These people always seemed to show a spark of vigor that was really amazing.

It was the above interesting fact that led a New York scientist to discover a new food called Nu-VITOLYN.

Science Reveals Explanation
After years of research and deep study, scientists finally determined that the actual seed source of such rich foods as oysters, clams, shrimp, fish, raw eggs, sweetbreads, was nothing but a food-form of Phosphorus. This precious ingredient is found abundantly in the above foods—has amazing Nerve-Building powers. It builds muscle, strength and important nerve tissue. It is the embryonic source of all life both in the human and plant life.

Doctors called this ingredient Lecithin. And when first discovered, it could be manufactured from rich foods only at expensive cost.

Then from Europe came the news that a new process had been discovered which would make Lecithin available at moderate cost so that every health-seeker in need could enjoy its wonderful properties. This process was immediately used to perfect Nu-VITOLYN.

Nu-Vitlyn Rich in Lecithin
But a few months ago Thomas C. Martindale introduced Nu-Vitlyn to Philadelphia and by the following statement over Station WFL:

"For many months I have personally observed hundreds of men, women and children who have been using this unique food, called Nu-VITOLYN, and I have been profoundly impressed by the benefits grateful people have enjoyed."

"Men, especially in middle-age, have responded to this rich food element, and report a new liveliness, endurance and satisfaction from life so long lacking."

Women, too, who only a few months ago were little more than skin and bones, sunken cheeks, dull eyes, tired and exhausted, now come back with the sparkle of health in their faces, hollows filled out beautifully, a sight of loveliness."

Sold on Guarantee
Needless to say Nu-Vitlyn tastes delicious. It is in delightful powder form and is taken in your beverage, making the drink hot or cold, taste like something pleasurable. A large supply comes in a container of 13 oz. and sold with a positive guarantee of satisfaction.

In Bristol at only 89c per can, reduced from $1, at VICTOR STORES CO., 303 Mill Street, Get Nu-Vitlyn today—and every delicious drop of it must help you or there is no cost.
